

DEMARIE

WINERY

ABOUT US

The soft hills of Roero have always been suited to producing great wines...

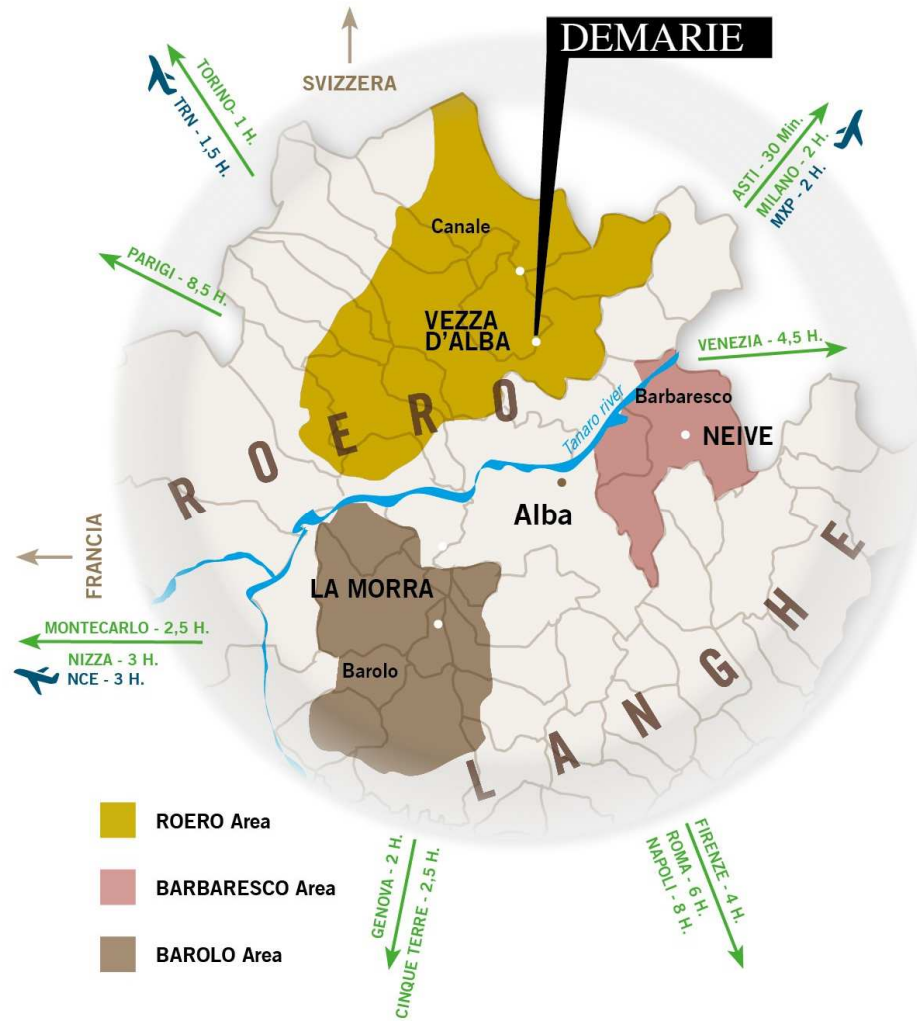

At Vezza d'Alba, in the heart of the Roero region, over three generations of the Demarie family have been running their domain with expertise, hard work and a truly passionate love for wine-growing, with over 20 hectares of vineyards in the boroughs of Vezza, Castagnito, Castellinaldo and Guarene...

WHERE WE ARE

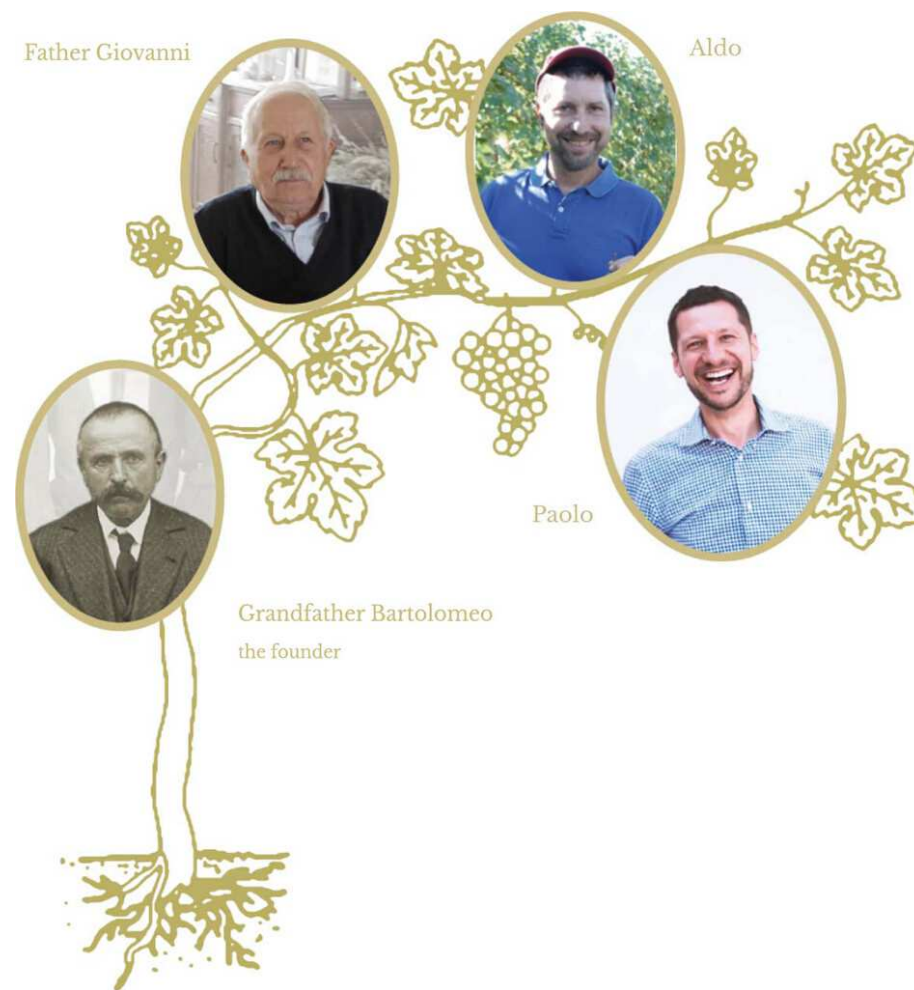

The soil in LANGHE area is sandy, clay, calcareous, with blue marl and sandstone. This soil gives structure and long ageing potential.

The soil in ROERO area is mostly sandy, with sea fossils. This soil gives minerality & delicate flavour.

THREE GENERATIONS OF WINE PRODUCERS

Our story begins like others of those times: a man who believes in the potential of his territory, and who chooses to tell it through wine. The man in question is Bartolomeo, our grandfather, founder of the Demarie winery. A bet – for the economy of that time – to invest in the wine sector. Giovanni, his son, as well as our father, is also involved in the company. Since then the company has continued to grow on the solid foundations built by the grandfather, and with the philosophy that has always characterized our work: a genuine, traditional production, with a special attention towards protecting the biodiversity.

THE TEMPLE OF WINE, WHERE MAGIC TAKES PLACE

The choice of the company to vinify exclusively the grapes coming from its own vineyards guarantees the authenticity of the product.

Soft pressing, fermentation at a controlled temperature and aging in selected woods are aimed at enhancing the natural characteristics of the grapes while maintaining their aromatic integrity. The cellar thus becomes the place of innovation and enhancement of what experience and tradition have been able to teach us over the years.

Here the wines follow their path from must to finished product, realizing the ideals of our family and the hard work done in the vineyard.
